SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

COLLABORATIVE PATHWAYS IN THEOLOGY, FORMATION, AND FAITH BETWEEN HURON'S LTH PROGRAM AND EDUCATION FOR MINISTRY CANADA

London, ON – Huron University College's Faculty of Theology is excited to share its collaboration with Education for Ministry (EfM) Canada. Recognizing the pedagogy and rigorous academic standards of EfM's Theological course offerings, Huron will grant two elective credits toward its Licentiate in Theology diploma program to students who successfully complete EfM Canada's four-year Classic Programme.

The two credits awarded by Huron in the LTh Program would be considered elective credits and could be applied towards a student's continuation in the 16-credit Licentiate in Theology Diploma Program.

About Huron's Licentiate in Theology Program

The Licentiate in Theology (LTh) is a pre-degree diploma program at Huron University College, intended for anyone with an interest in finding out more about Christian Theology, deepening their faith, or answering a call to prepare for ministry or Christian leadership.

About Education for Ministry Canada

Education for Ministry (EfM) Canada is a theological education programme for laypeople that uses contemporary scholarship in scripture, church history, theology, and the life of faith in a changing world. It offers a four-year Classic programme or a one-year Wide-Angle programme. The four-year Classic programme requires enrolment for one year at a time, while the Wide-Angle programme provides a taste of all four years. Both programmes are in small-group settings facilitated by an accredited mentor. EfM incorporates the EfM Core Values, fostering a safe, supportive, and encouraging community for participants to grow in their faith and spirituality. EfM helps participants integrate their learning into their lives and ministries in the church and the wider community.
